Dear Mr. Bohannon:

In response to your letter received March 10, 1980, please be advised that the Bureau of the Mint produced a special Mint Set in 1976, which was the Bicentennial 40% silver three coin edition. However, these sets are no longer available.

If you wish your name be placed on the Bureau of the Mint's mailing list in San Francisco for 1980 Proof and Uncirculated Coin Sets, please complete the enclosed form.

The Bureau of the Mint in San Francisco expects to accept 1980 Proof Set orders this month and 1980 Uncirculated Coin Set orders in September of this year. The cost of these sets will be announced later. Enclosed is information on coin sets.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Nicholas:

This is to acknowledge your request of March 24, 1980, to purchase 1980 proof and uncirculated coin sets from the Denver Mint.

We are sorry to advise you that the Denver Mint does not accept mail orders. However, we are enclosing an order form for the 1980 proof sets. Mail orders are accepted at the Bureau of the Mint, 55 Mint Street, San Francisco, California 94175.

Proof coins are struck only at the San Francisco Assay Office bearing the "S" mint mark. The 1980 proof set contains one coin of each denomination: a cent, nickel, dime, quarter dollar, half dollar and dollar. Proof coins are struck from specially prepared (non-silver) blanks. Each coin is struck twice with highly polished dies to assure a mirror-like finish. The coins are sealed in a pre-cast plastic package which protects and displays the set.

The Denver and Philadelphia Mints make up the uncirculated coin sets. These sets represent the very best coins which can be made with the same coining techniques as are used for circulating coinage production. These coins are sent to San Francisco where they are sealed in a mylar film and inserted in a presentation envelope and made available for sale to the public. The Mint will be accepting orders this Fall for the 1980 uncirculated sets.

When you order a coin set from San Francisco, please be assured that you will automatically receive order cards for all future special coins and medals offered by the three Mints.

Dear Mrs. Plush:

In response to your letter of March 8, 1980, please be advised that the cent you possess is one that has probably been produced by a novelty concern. It seems that they utilized a Mint-produced cent and superimposed the likeness of the late President Kennedy facing Lincoln, the outlines of states, etc. There are many variations that have been produced. It is not unique in any way. It probably has been plated or mercury washed.

The Bureau of the Mint does not place a numismatic value on any coin. You might wish to contact a local coin dealer, who might be located in the yellow pages of the telephone directory.

Dear Mr. Rastatter:

It is very difficult to tell the metal content of a bar by its appearance. There is an infinite number of alloys of various metals many of which look the same. The only way to determine what the bar is made of is to have a chemical analysis performed by a reputable analyst. If you check your "yellow pages" under the headings of assayers or laboratories in a major city near you, they can give you the appropriate charges.

If you are only interested in the gold or silver content, our Assay Office at the Denver Mint can analyze your sample. In order to do this type analysis, two holes will be drilled into the bar for sampling purposes. Enclosed is an information sheet describing the charges for this service.

I hope this information helps you in answering your question.

Dear Mr. Leffler:

This is to acknowledge your request of April 30, 1980, to purchase coin sets from the Denver Mint.

We are sorry to advise you that the Denver Mint does not accept mail orders. However, we are enclosing a order form for ordering the 1980 proof sets. Mail orders are accepted at the Bureau of the Mint, 55 Mint Street, San Francisco, California 94175.

Proof coins are struck only at the San Francisco Assay Office bearing the "S" mint mark. The 1980 proof set contains one coin of each denomination: a cent, nickel, dime, quarter dollar, half dollar and dollar. Proof coins are struck from specially prepared (non-silver) blanks. Each coin is struck twice with highly polished dies to assure a mirror-like finish. The coins are sealed in a pre-cast plastic package which protects and displays the set.

The Denver and Philadelphia Mints make up the uncirculated coin sets. These sets represent the very best coins which can be made with the same coining techniques as are used for circulating coinage production. These coins are sent to San Francisco where they are sealed in a mylar film and inserted in a presentation envelope and made available for sale to the public. The Mint will be accepting orders this Fall for the 1980 uncirculated sets.

When you order a coin set from San Francisco, please be assured that you will automatically receive order cards for all future special coins and medals offered by the three Mints.

Dear Mr. Vedra:

This is to acknowledge your request of May 1, 1980, to purchase rolls of coin from the Denver Mint.

We are sorry to advise you that the Bureau of the Mint does not sell individual coins nor rolls or bags of coin to the public. The primary responsibility of the Bureau of the Mint is to issue coins for circulation in quantities sufficient to meet the nation's needs. The Mint fulfills this function by producing and shipping coins to each of the Federal Reserve Banks and Branches. They in turn, make distribution to commercial banks. Coin production is scheduled on the basis of estimates projected by Federal Reserve Banks from commercial bank demands.

With the exception of special numismatic items, the Mint distributes coins only to the Federal Reserve. Neither the Mint nor the Federal Reserve Banks supply coin directly to the public, whether it be an individual or a coin dealer. The Mint has no control over the coin distribution policies of commercial banks.

The Bureau of the Mint does not recommend coin dealers or collectors to whom inquiry could be made regarding the purchase of coins. It is suggested you consult the yellow pages of your telephone directory for the names of dealers or coin clubs in your area.

The 1979 Proof Coin Set . . .

... contains one coin of each denomination: a penny, nickel, dime, quarter, half dollar and the new Susan B. Anthony dollar. Proof Coins are struck from specially prepared (non-silver) blanks. Each coin is struck twice with highly polished dies to assure a mirror-like finish. The San Francisco Assay Office produces and packages the sets, and each coin bears the "S" mint mark. The coins are sealed in a pre-cast plastic package which protects and displays the set. The 1979 Proof Coin Set is priced at $9.00 which includes postage and handling.

Proof Coin Sets are produced and shipped through the end of the year of issue. Therefore, we will be shipping the 1979 sets through December 31, 1979. We ship orders as closely as possible to their order of receipt; but the vast majority of orders are received within the first month of the ordering period. If your order is not in the first group to be shipped, you will receive a postcard acknowledging your order and indicating when you can expect to receive your order.

The Mint accepts orders for Proof Coin Sets until the production capacity is reached, and acceptance of orders is conditioned upon our ability to meet the demand. At this time, we anticipate that we will be able to accept orders from April 2 to May 31, 1979. We recommend that you send your order as soon as possible. Your remittance will be deposited for safekeeping and, if we cannot honor your order, a refund will be made. Orders are not cancelable by the purchaser.

UNITED STATES MINT
320 West Colfax Ave.
DENVER, COLO. 80204

Mint tours are on a first-come, first-served basis. There are no provisions for reservations.

The Mint is open for tours all year with the exception of the last two weeks in June (usually extending through July 4) when there is an official shutdown of coinage operations for inventory -- or, "Settlement," as it is called within the Mint. The Bureau of the Mint is required by law to conduct an annual settlement in all of the field offices. Settlement of accounts occurs in June each year, with resumption of operations on the first workday after July 4. The dates for this inventory and/or settlement vary slightly from year to year, therefore, an inquiry is recommended. This year (1979) Settlement will take place June 20 through July 3. The Mint is closed to visitors on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

All tours are conducted, and there is no charge. A tour takes approximately one-half hour. We are equipped to take 25 to 35 people every 15 minutes.

Children under the age of 14 must be accompanied by an adult. Packages, parcels and large hand bags may be inspected before visitors are admitted.

Following are the hours that visitors are admitted (second gate on Cherokee Street) for tours:

Summer hours: May 30 to September 1
8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Remainder of year: 9 a.m. to 11 a.m.
1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Special arrangements will be made for tours for handicapped persons. Please contact Security Officer at 837-4465.

In order not to disappoint those wishing to visit the Mint during the inventory shutdown period, we allow the public to view a gold display on the mezzanine floor; this may be done between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. The Numismatic Sales Room (west entrance on Delaware Street) is also open to the public.

Dear Mrs. Ehle:

In response to your communication received May 7, 1980, please be advised that none of the Mints have ever produced a coin such as you describe. It is not the type of error that would likely be made in the coining process.

Novelty companies sometimes imprint the late President John F. Kennedy's image and others in a coin. This is possibly what happened in the case of the coin you describe.

The Bureau of the Mint does not place a numismatic value on any coin.

Dear Mr. Graves:

We are happy to have your letter received May 19, 1980 and to hear that you enjoyed a tour of our Mint.

The Bureau of the Mint's Technical Division has been experimenting with possible changes in the Susan B. Anthony dollar. At the present time there is nothing to report.

Thank you for your inquiry.

Sincerely,

Evelyn T. Davidson

Dear Mr. Reichstadt:

In response to your letter and, proposed nickel design, I note with interest your artistic talent. However, coin designs are decided by the Congress. Mr. Frank Gasparro, the Bureau Chief Engraver and his staff at the Philadelphia Mint submit proposed designs to Congress. Legislation by Congress would be necessary to change the design of any coin.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Wallin:

In response to your letter of May 20, 1980, please be advised that we have checked our records and find no record of your order.

Since the Denver Mint transacts over-the-counter sales only, you probably forwarded your checks and order to Carson City Silver Dollars, San Francisco CA 94170. The Carson City silver dollars were sold by the General Services Administration and not by the Bureau of the Mint.

Mr. Shannon Wade
5632 E. Weaver Circle
Englewood, Colorado 80111

Dear Mr. Wade:

Thank you for your interest in the Susan B. Anthony dollar coin as indicated in your letter of May 26, 1980.

Extensive testing was done on brass-colored materials bonded to a copper core. The copper-zinc and copper-aluminum-nickel alloys which were tested deviated from their original brass color to various shades of yellow-green after a period of months of handling. It was also discovered that many materials could not be metallurgically bonded to copper, a process which is necessary in preventing slugging of vending machines and to retain an acceptable appearance over the life of the coin.

In accordance with suggestions made by Congress and the public the Mint has reinitiated research aimed at investigating a possible color change in the Susan B. Anthony dollar. While we cannot state with certainty that these efforts will be successful, we will continue to conduct testing in this area.

The dollar coin is 20% thicker than the quarter. The thickness of the coin is a result of weight and circulation considerations. Testing showed that any additional increase in the thickness of the coin would make the new dollar cumbersome to use and therefore would affect its circulation.

The coin's relationship to the quarter is similar to the ratio between the quarter and the nickel. In addition, the new dollar is 43% heavier than the quarter.

Sincerely,

Evelyn T. Davidson
Superintendent
